

I am strongly opposed to BPL. When better technologies not only are being developed, but many are already in place, there is no reason to accept continuous low level interference.

There is already coaxial cable to many homes in this country, and before long, fiber optic lines to homes will be commonplace. There is no reason to set up a system that will result in an unnecessary source of electromagnetic pollution.